

Generalisation to an unseen transition

The dotted line is chance. The discriminative baselines have no examples of the held-out class; the structured model builds its template from parameters.