

Latents differObservables do not*The test has power, and does not fire on the twin

Model 2 is model 1 in different latent coordinates. The recovered latents differ by 42%; the observables agree to $2e-14$; the recovered poles agree. The same permutation test separates a world that really is different.